Today people are more aware of exercising than they were a few years ago. It has become popular because it keeps you fit. Firstly it helps to reduce weight. A heavier person will burn more calories running.

UGE-SN201

A runner must burn 3500 calories to lose 40 grams of fat. A 65 kg person who runs or walks fast for a mile a day, 300 days a year, will burn 30,000 extra calories in a year. A heavier person will burn even more calories. A runner already at a healthy weight maintains good health without gaining weight. In a way running also encourages taking a healthy diet.

Running also improves muscle tone and increases the strength of the muscles. Running is a cardiovascular exercise. Running increases blood flow, which stimulates the heart. It is a healthy exercise. All this improves muscle endurance and power.

The relation between running and psychological well being has increasingly come under the spotlight over recent years. Running as an exercise aids to sleep soundly. Research has shown that people who engage themselves in such vigorous exercise do not get depressed. People, who want to improve their health should consider running.
